If the background is blurred, the subject is in focus properly the way a manual camera would take a photo. - Elements from the blur are masked out and restored properly *If face is blurred ->face has details brought back - (eyes, ears, eyebrows, nose, lips, teeth, hair etc) * If the background is blurred -> details around the subject have been brought back to make the focal point into a gradient focus. The blur mask is lighter towards subject. Proper curves adjustment layer and making properly used to create impactful photo (dodge & burn).
